

Center for Sikh and Punjab Studies

University of California, Santa Barbara

*Home Teaching Research Conferences Lectures Summer Program
Activities Patrons Contact*

Other Activities

Read the article printed in the Ventura County Star, September 27, 2004
"A place to pray - Sikh Sunday service is first at church's new Ventura facility"

Professor Mann lectures at the inaugural service of the Sikh Gurdwara in Ventura
 September 26, 2004

Visit the Sikh Heritage Gallery Website
 An Exhibit of the Natural History Museum
 Smithsonian Institution, Washing, DC

In June 2001, G. S. Mann conducted a workshop on the teaching of Punjabi to 95 high school teachers in Singapore.

In June 2002, G.S. Mann offered a two-day workshop to the same group of teachers on the history and message of the Adi Granth.

Over the past three years G.S. Mann has been supporting and advising Stanford University's Department of Religion in developing a course on Sikh Studies.

G.S. Mann advised the California Commission on Teacher Credentials and National Educational Society in the creation of teacher's credentials examination for Punjabi language in Spring 2004.

G.S. Mann has been acting as advisor to the Sikh Heritage Gallery Project at the Smithsonian Institute, Washington D.C. The gallery is due to be inaugurated in July 2004.

Since its inception in 1997, our Summer Program in Punjab Studies has attracted over 100 scholars from forty-four universities in nine countries (Australia, Canada, England, France, Germany, India, Italy, Sweden, and the U.S.). Their areas of interest comprised Anthropology, Architecture, Asian Studies, Economics, Education, Ethnomusicology, Global Studies, History, International Affairs, Law, Library Science, Literature, Linguistics, Political Science, Psychology, Public Administration, Public Health, Religious Studies, Social Work, and Sociology. The Program has emerged as an important forum where North American, European, and Punjabi scholars trained both in the Punjab, as well as in the West, meet and exchange academic ideas--arguably the most distinctive aspect of the program.

Click Here for more information on the Summer Program in Punjab Studies.

UCSB Students Visiting the Gurdwara in April 2004

Students Visiting the Sikh Temple

Students Enjoying Lunch and Conversation

Visitors 2004-2005

Parminder Bachu, Dr. Bhajan Singh of Singapore, Dr. and Mrs. Varinder Singh Grewal.

Home | Teaching | Research | Conferences | Lectures | Summer Program
Activities | Patrons | Contact

Global & International Studies Home | UCSB Home